

How to wash a Woolly Mammoth.

Does your woolly mammoth need a wash?

It's not a very easy thing to do...

Woolly mammoths are quite BIG

And wool is notoriously tricky to clean.

Don't worry, just follow this step-by-step guide.

Step one:

Fill the bath tub. This may take a while if your woolly mammoth is feeling thirsty,

Step two:

Add soap while giving it a good mix to make lots of bubbles.

Step three:

Add mammoth in to the bath.

There is always cake when all else fails.

Step four:

Start vigorously scrubbing! Don't forget to wash thoroughly behind those ears.

Step five:

Wash his big, fat tummy.

Be careful because a mammoth's tummy is terribly tickly!

Step six:

Make a Splash!

Step seven:

Now for the really Woolly bit. You're going to need some shampoo but not too much!

Be careful not to get any in the mammoth's... ...EYES!!!

That's torn it!

Step Eight:

To get a woolly mammoth down from a tree you'll need...

... a very strong trampoline placed directly below the branch the mammoth is sitting on.

Step nine:

Let him share a bath with you until you are both wrinkly!

Step ten:

Throw in the towel and snuggle.
