Dear michael rosen,

My name is mrs rickword and I am writing to you as I have a few questions about your work. I have been learning all about you and your poems. The videos that we have been shown on YouTube are very funny. I am glad you have your own channel. We have also been looking at the structure of your poems by putting them back together but I think your poems are still better than the ones I made.

In school, we sometimes write poems. How often do you write a new poem? How do you decide on the layout of your work? Some of your poems have lots of verses and other poems, like shorts, only have one.

My favourite lesson was where we performed your poem Don't. I think you have lots of very good facial expressions and the voices you use make me laugh. I look forward to hearing your answers.

Yours sincerely,

mrs rickword
